*Dr. Lun-Shin Wei Memorial Scholarship Fund Established

Dr. Lun-Shin Wei, professor emeritus in food science and human nutrition at the University of Illinois, passed away on May 15, 2007. At that time, his family requested that memorials be directed to the Lun Shin Wei Memorial Scholarship fund in the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition at the University of Illinois. It is hoped that this scholarship fund reach the level of endowment.

To date, there have been numerous contributions and memorials to the scholarship but the fund balance is still more than $13,000 from the needed endowment goal of $25,000. This fund level would generate an annual $1,000 scholarship, which would be maintained for perpetuity. The endowment of this scholarship fund would create a continued recognition to Dr. Wei and his contributions to the food science field.

Lun-Shin Wei was internationally well-known for his ground-breaking work in the field of soybean research. He focused on increasing the utilization of soybeans, and the effects of raw soybean qualities on processed soy products and developed food processes for utilization of soy foods. L.S. Wei was author and co-author of over 100 papers and scholarly articles on soy research and development.

Those interested in donating to the Lun Shin Wei Memorial Scholarship fund may make contributions online at www.giving.uiuc.edu. Donors should indicate that the gift is to benefit the Lun Shin Wei Scholarship. Mailed memorial donations made payable to the University of Illinois Foundation can be directed to the College of ACES Office of Advancement, 166 Bevier Hall, 905 S. Goodwin Ave., Urbana, IL 61801. Individuals may also contact the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition at 217-244-2875.
